

Razvan Gabriel Plingu

Junior Front-End Developer

A driven naval architect with a passion for coding and technology. With 5 years of experience bringing ideas to life in the shipbuilding industry, I am now eager to transition my skills to the exciting world of web development. Currently studying front-end development for 7 months. I bring my attention to detail and problem-solving skills to the table. My focus on client wishes, combined with my technical aptitude and creative thinking, make me a strong candidate for a challenging role in a dynamic organization where I can continue learning and delivering innovative web solutions.
